Estimated Seriously Emotionally Disturbed Youth Ages 9-17	This is the estimated number of youth ages 9-17 years old with a serious emotional disturbance with substantial to extreme functional impairment. The estimate is based on a report called Mental Health, United States, 1996 from the Department of Health and Human Services which found that conservatively, 9% of the population ages 9-17 years old are affected. Using the 9% estimate results in rates for all counties being equal. The change in numbers over time is directly reflective of the change in population of that age group rather than a change in the mental health status of the population. Data are from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration.

Serious mental illnesses include major depression, schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, and other mental disorders that cause serious impairment. These counts are based on prevalence estimates from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA).
High School Students Who Have Experienced Four or More Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs)	Data about the High School Students Who Have Experienced Four or More Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs) come from the Florida Youth Substance Abuse Survey (FYSAS). The data are summarized from a statewide, school-based survey effort to assesses risk and protective factors for substance abuse, including substance use prevalence, alcohol, prescription and illicit drug use among youth. Schools and classrooms are randomly selected and the survey responses are anonymous. FYSAS collects state-level data during odd numbered years and county-level data during even numbered years.

Data may contain multiple ED visits for the same person/injury event due to hospital transfers, readmissions, and follow-up visits. Therefore, the data reflects the number of ED visits and not the number of people injured. Some of the ED visits may not have a confirmed or suspected code present with codes related to perpetrator, encounter for examination and observation of victim following forced sexual or labor exploitation, and personal history of forced labor or sexual exploitation. Counts less than 5 are suppressed. Data are from the Florida Agency for Health Care Administration.
